

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A docking architecture for a notebook computer is described. Specifically, a circuit coupled to a Low Pin Count (LPC) bus monitors the LPC bus for trusted data cycles. If a trusted data cycle is detected, the circuit prevents the trusted data cycle from being available to a non-trusted component.